The 2015 Corton-Charlemagne Grand Cru is superb, wafting from the glass with aromas of preserved citrus, white flowers and toasted nuts. On the palate, the wine is medium to full-bodied, concentrated and intense, with good grip and a tight-knit core which shows promise for the future. This was raised in one-year-old barrels, and the oak influence is very well judged.

The 2015 Corton Grand Cru Les Renardes is lovely, offering up a reticent bouquet of dark berries, coniferous forest floor, espresso roast and grilled venison. On the palate, the wine is as full-bodied as the Corton Le Rognet but finer-grained, more mineral and more elegant, with lovely precision on the youthfully chewy finish. Again, this will require some time in the cellar to soften.

The 2015 Corton Grand Cru Le Rognet et Corton offers up a lovely nose of rich red fruit, wood smoke, grilled meat and a subtle framing of spicy new oak. On the palate, the wine is ample, full-bodied and fine-grained, with good concentration and firm structure which will need some time in the cellar to melt.
